the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million, from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1995. The public sector has become an important employer of people with mental health problems.

There is a growing awareness of the need to improve the mental health of people in the public sector. The Department of Health (1996) has published a strategy for the mental health of public sector employees. This strategy is based on the principle that the mental health of public sector employees is a public health issue. The strategy aims to improve the mental health of public sector employees by promoting a culture of mental health awareness, providing training and support for managers and staff, and ensuring that the needs of people with mental health problems are met. The strategy also aims to improve the mental health of the public by ensuring that public sector employees are able to provide a high quality of service.

The strategy is based on the following principles: (1) the mental health of public sector employees is a public health issue; (2) the mental health of public sector employees is a responsibility of the public sector; (3) the mental health of public sector employees is a responsibility of the individual; (4) the mental health of public sector employees is a responsibility of the community; (5) the mental health of public sector employees is a responsibility of the government. 1993 DECUSSATA

Out of the Ordinary

A different lunch hour every-day, a day when students are encouraged to wander around campus, Tuesday early dismissals, "M" schedules, "B" schedules, leaving school for open lunch, a dance that parents are actually invited to attend, screenless windows, bumble-bee plagued classrooms, rotating schedules, and a school day devoted entirely to playing games and having fun:

Strange? Unlikely?

Different? Bizarre?

Unique?

STUDENT LIFE

Shopping in Beverly Hills, skiing the Alps, lounging around a beach in Barbados, shooting hoops in Chicago Stadium: these are just some of the ways that Niners wish they could spend their weekends. However, the hustle-and-bustle of school life is bound to put a kink in even some of the best laid plans. There just isn't enough time to climb Mt. Everest on Saturday when a term paper is due on Monday. But even if it isn't possible to jet off to Paris every weekend, there are plenty of other ways for Niners to have fun and escape stress while remaining only a car-ride from home. The typical Niner blows off steam in a variety of ways. On an average, each student will make 33.3 trips to the mall during the school year. When hunger strikes, 40% of Niners have a Big Mac attack, while 26% prefer Whoppers, 13% opt for finer dining at The Olive Garden, 11% make a run for the border at Taco Bell, 6% head off to the local pizzeria, and the remaining 4% choose to visit Miami Subs, Hardees, Checkers or other diners. School spirit is kept high by each Niner attending an average of four school games per month. If there's no game, then students might be found at the cinema seeing one of the 16.2 movies they see each year. The video stores are kept busy by renting 24.2 videos, per student annually. For special occasions, students take advantage of the Windy City which offers countless possibilities for fun. Wherever they are, whatever they're doing, Niners have proven that there's more to high school than homework.

We've Got the Spirit

The halls of Andean were an unusual sight during the week of September 14-18, the annual Spirit Week anticipating Homecoming. The theme, "Sea of Love," determined the fashions for each day. Students dressed in casual cruise wear on Monday, became characters from "Gilligan's Island" on Tuesday, and transformed into beach burns on Thursday. The week concluded with red and gold day on Friday.

Reigning Royalty

The moment had finally arrived. Despite the chilly weather, the crowd had remained. As five shiny convertibles approached the platform, the crowd rose in hope of getting a better glimpse of the 1992 Homecoming candidates. The candidates, Shelli Holzer, Evona Johnson, Madge Harsha, Brandy Redden, and Aimee Talian, and their escorts Jeff Jacobs, Santino Martinez, Paul Smith, Tim Gutowski, and Chris Farag, assembled on the stage to await the announcement. Finally, the winner was announced, and 1991 Queen, Missy Martens, crowned her successor Brandy Redden. The crowd cheered as the 1992 queen and court were escorted back to the convertibles and driven away.

Come With Me to the Sea

On September 19, a day after the 59er's rousing victory over the Horace Mann Horsemen and the crowning of the Homecoming queen, the large gym turned into a Sea of Happiness.

Mrs. Hevel, Mrs. Bosak and the student council decorating committee transformed the gym into a wave of colorful fish, seahorses, and starfish. With the help of the Music Men the 1992 homecoming dance turned into a night of hot dancing in formal fall fashions.

We're Gonna Pump it Up!

Spirit Week at Andrean was brought to a thunderous climax as the Fifty-Niner Homecoming pep rally began. Student Council President Steve Durko began the pep rally with roll call, "Is the class of 1996 here?" he asked, and with a thunderous response, freshmen answered with screams and yells. Each class had its turn at roll call and responded with cheers of pride.

Seniors Eric Bachich and Jason Neagu showed off their acting skills by portraying muscle-bound Saturday Night Live characters, Hanz and Franz. Seniors Nikki Perrin, Adrienne Lietz, and Stacy Heim did a Saturday Night Live skit about the Delta Delta Delta sorority girls.

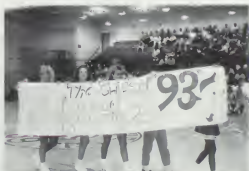

The annual Homecoming float contest was next on the agenda. Class officers presented the floats for each class. The seniors took first place with Paul Muszik crowned King of the Sea. The freshmen pinata float came in a close second. The sophomores' wagon and the juniors' rocking horse tied for third place, rounding out the judging. Students made clear through the Homecoming pep rally their pride and undying loyalty.

Whether for Community Service or Medical Experience

Candy Strippers Lend a Hand

According to Andean students, one of the most rewarding ways to spend time is candy stripping at a local hospital or church. Several of the students who candy stripe say that they do it because they enjoy watching people smile; others do it just for the experience and community service. Most of the students have been Candy Strippers for at least one year, and others two.

Sophomore Nadia Jackson says that a Candy Striper is "a youth volunteer who not only helps provide service to patients and the community, but also has the opportunity to see what a career in health-related services is like." A Candy Striper's duties include running errands, helping the nurses on the floor or in the office, answering phones, delivering flowers, gifts, and notes to patients, passing out water, and wheeling patients around. Most of the students found visiting the pediatric ward the most interesting task.

Erika Anderson, Jennifer Bryant, Nicole Givens, Angela Hardy, Renee Hardy, Brook Hashiguchi, Christina Heffner, Nadia Jackson, Evona Johnson, Carmelle McGill, Ama Opong-Duah, Amber Roper, Stephanie Santos, Rosa Vazquez, and Nina Williams are Andean students and candy strippers. These students have volunteered at Christ Baptist Church, Clark Road Missionary Baptist Church, St. Mary's Medical Center in Hobart, Methodist Hospital Northlake, Methodist Hospital Southlake, Munster Community, Northwestern Memorial Hospital, and St. Mary's Medical Center; Gary.

According to Nicole Givens, students interested in becoming hospital or church volunteers can contact a hospital in their area or their church for an application and interview. Once selected they will be given vaccinations and put to work.

Living it up with Dad

Among the unique experiences that set Andean apart from other schools is the annual father-daughter dinner dance. Junior Lucia Pati describes Daddy Date Night as "a unique experience, because not many daughters get to spend quality time with their fathers."

On October 18, at Daddy Date Night, Andean girls and their fathers enjoyed a quiet dinner and a night of dancing at the Elks Club in Hobart. After eating a roast beef dinner, Mr. Listro, former Andean teacher, and his band, Abbey Road, provided songs for dads and daughters alike.

Fathers of senior girls were given carnations, and all fathers received leaves with their names printed on them. To conclude an unforgettable night, fathers who had attended the dance for four or more years received awards.

Senior Evona Johnson says, "Daddy Date Night allows a special time when a girl can really feel like daddy's little girl."

Conversation and dancing came easy for Amber Zimmer and dad, Coach Ivan Zimmer, as they trip the light fantastic.

Brenda Dreas and her dad retake their seats after receiving their award for several years of participation at Daddy Date Night.

Jennifer Cascellani wipes the sweat from her father's brow as they rest from dancing.

Moms Party Too

Mommy Date Night was a night of fun-filled dancing and delicious food. The young gentlemen of Andean enjoyed a wonderful night out with their moms on January 31, 1993, at the Elks Club in Hobart. When the guys weren't watching the Buffalo Bills and the Dallas Cowboys on the football field, or watching Michael Jackson at half-time, they were lighting up the dance floor with old and new dance moves, to the music of Abbey Road. When asked about his night out with mom, senior Keith Witherspoon said, "I enjoyed taking my mother out because she always does stuff for me, and it felt nice doing something for her." The mothers who have attended Mommy Date Night for four or more years received awards in their honor.

Cash For Every Step We Take

September 22, 1992 was the perfect sunny day for Andean's 5th annual Walk-a-Thon. Over 750 students enjoyed a half day of classes and then circled the school and track five times to complete the walk, earning money from their sponsors for each completed lap. Student Council sponsors distributed cold pop to students who completed the Walk-a-Thon. The combined classes earned approximately $11,000 for their favorite sports-related activity or club. Junior John Puntillo believes that the Walk-a-Thon is "an excellent but tiring way to earn money."

William Eldridge, Chancie Thompson, Gabriel Magana and John Weston rest after walking their five laps.

Brian Stuck, Dosh Unni, Tom Lustina, ReNae Johnson, and Brad Martens lead the way to the refreshments after their last lap.

Dave Jenson, Becky DelToro, Katie Tyler, and Brenda Franks walk briskly on the track.

Enjoying the sunshine, Angie Nunez, Shelene Newton, and Stephanie Thompson snack their way through five laps.

Laura Musszik and Kari Kramer carry everything they need as they set out on their first lap.

"You Ought to Help Us Praise Him"

In the fall when the idea of an Inspirational Choir was suggested, many Andrean students responded eagerly. Evona Johnson, senior, explains, "I was excited when Andrean decided to have this type of choir. It means a chance to minister to others through familiar Gospel music. This allows me to share with the rest of the students at this school the music from my own church." The assumption that all members of the choir are of African-American descent is definitely false. Several of the members are of other ethnic groups.

"Please don't hinder me, I'm trying to make a change, I'm goin' all the way and I'm going in Jesus' name," are some of the lyrics from "My Mind's Made Up," one of the songs that the Andrean Inspirational Choir sings. "Lift Him Up," "Joy," "Speak to My Heart," "He That Believeth," "Take it Away from Me" and "Jesus is the Light of the World" are among the many songs performed by the choir. The Inspirational Choir began as a "goal of some of the students to get more people motivated and involved in the music department," says senior choir director Staci Jones. The Inspirational

"It means a chance to minister to others through familiar Gospel music."

Choir is composed of 32 students from grades nine through twelve.

"When the choir first started out we had more members than we have now. Recruiting seems to be one of the hardest things that the Inspirational Choir has tried to accomplish," says senior Anitra Washington. But according to senior choir director Taunya Edwards the hardest thing for her to accomplish was "teaching the members the songs without written music."

The Inspirational Choir has participated in Gospel Jamborees at East Chicago Central and West Side High School. They do not limit themselves to participation in public events; their first appearance was Andrean's Open House, and they have also sung for the Christmas Concert and the Ash Wednesday Service. Ethan Burnett, the choir's pianist, provides the music for their songs, playing everything by ear. In his spare time, he plays several instruments for his church and plays the drums for the Spring Musical. Credit is due to Taunya Edwards, Staci Jones, Ethan Burnett and moderator Mrs. Becky Rodriguez who established the Inspirational Choir.

Out and Abroad

Students Travel to Foreign Lands

"Guten Tag" and "Cheerio" are two phrases Andrean students learned when they journeyed overseas during spring break. The German Club, led by Mrs. Pete, toured Germany, Austria, Switzerland, and Liechtenstein. Highlights of the trip included visiting the Hofbrauhaus House in Munich, the scenery in Salzburg, the Alps, and King Ludwig's Castle in Germany. Sophomore, Debbie Huff said, "I liked everything, but walking around Heidelberg at night and listening to the street musicians was the best." The fast-paced trip lasted seven days.

While the German Club was touring, other students were visiting another part of Europe. Guided by Mrs. Thomas, fourteen students visited England and Ireland. The trip started in Ireland where students kissed the Blarney stone, shopped in Killarney, visited Dublin and Trinity College, and enjoyed the culture. Senior Carolyn Kacocha said, "Ireland is the most beautiful country I've ever seen. I'd love to live there someday."

After a stay in Ireland the group crossed the English Channel by boat. In England they toured Oxford University and Stratford-upon-Avon before moving on to the many popular attractions of London.

Students on the England and Ireland trip got more than they bargained for. A delayed flight provided travelers with an extra day of vacation in Boston compliments of Aer Lingus Airlines. Although tired from traveling, students made the most of their stay in Boston by visiting the art museum, the Cheers gift shop, a White Sox versus Red Sox game at Fenway Park, the Freedom Trail and the Quincy Market at Faneuil Hall. All students agree that the trips were an experience of a lifetime.

Heaven Is Within Our Reach

The music played, dancers swayed and the gym looked "Just Like Heaven." On February 20, couples donned their semi-formal attire to attend the annual Turnabout dance. Walking through pillars of cloud-like balloons illuminated by tiny white lights, dancers were intrigued by silver stars and transparent balloons hanging from the rafters. The music provided by Musicmen was a mix of contemporary R&B and oldies that kept dancers moving. As the dance came to a close, couples searched for their personalized stars to keep as a memento of Turnabout '93.

The Electric Slide moved Chris Szarmach, Bridget Pasztor, Mike Kackos, Raeanne Barbauld, Jamie Sarkey, and Stacey Mindel on to the dance floor.

Freshmen Siobhan Sullivan, Eva Hecimovich and their dates work it out on the dance floor.

The Hokey Pokey was led by Matt Snawder and followed by Kunteera Vachirasomboon, her date, Jessica Powell, Stephanie Thompson and several others.

Several students enjoy the dance YMCA including Paul Schumann and Laura Dabrowski.

Carolyn Kacocha's date leads her onto the dance floor.

Seniors Melinda Dombrowski, Marianne Lustina, Kristen Ihle, and Nikki Anderson ditch their dates for a dance with the girls.

ACADEMICS

There are 137 different academic courses offered at Andrean. By senior year, a student will have taken at least thirty of these. Students purchase an average of forty books for these classes. 44% of students carry their books in Jansport back-packs, while 24% choose to use East-Pak Hiking bags. The remaining 24% use other fashionable, durable book-bags. Students will spend approximately 720 days or 5760 hours at Andrean. Of those hours, students will spend almost 90 hours, or 3.75 days eating lunch each year. But don't worry about exercise, because each year students spend 4320 minutes or about 3 days walking between classes. The average student spends about 1.25 hours each week night and 2 hours each weekend doing homework. Through four years of high school, approximately 1172 hours or 48.8 days will be spent doing homework. It's no surprise that the average Niner uses approximately 9.4 notebooks, 7.25 pencils and 13.4 pens each year. No one is perfect, though; the average Niner uses 1.3 bottles of white-out correction fluid annually. However, 41% of students prefer erasable pens to white-out. With all the time that students and teachers devote it's no wonder that Andrean offers some of the toughest academic courses in the area.

ORGANIZATIONS

No one is bored at Andean, just "unorganized." With the many clubs and organizations, there's always something to do. From the first days of August to the last days of June Andean's clubs and organizations are planning ways to keep "organized" students busy all year round. Starting in August the Campus Ministry team gathers to plan the upcoming liturgies and retreats. In September, the Student Council convenes to plan Homecoming festivities. YARC members dress-up in costumes for the Halloween party. November brings along Turkey Day and the Community Service food drive. The Drama Club presents the fall play, while the National Honor Society inducts new members. The Music Club and Inspirational Choir spread tidings of comfort and joy at the Christmas Concert while the French Club feasts on rich pastries. In the new year Amnesty International plans more ways to benefit humanity. In February, juniors and seniors begin to plan the prom. Meanwhile, the Drama Club holds auditions for the spring musical. In March, while the Clown Troupe is busy rehearsing for its spring performance, the Math and Computer clubs are planning more interesting topics for upcoming meetings. Music and laughter echo from the Spanish Club's Cinco De Mayo fiesta. Students put the finishing touches on the final edition of the Acropolis. In June, after the seniors leave, the Decussata staff remains to complete the yearbook. At the end of July when everything comes to a close, along comes August and the cycle of the completely "organized" student starts all over again.

NEW ACADEMIC COURSES

Bumble Bee/Wasp Tolerance and Awareness

Course Description: This course aims to teach each student the importance of recognizing the threat of bees and wasps and realizing the danger of swatting insects in the middle of class and possibly angering the insect or the teacher. The class aims to teach students safety through quiet tolerance.

Creative Penmanship and Excuses

Course Description: This course aims to teach students the "ins" and "outs" of high school penmanship and excuses. Topics to be covered are: making "T" and "F" look similar on True/False tests, and arguing for half credit on multiple choice. The second semester focuses on excuses. This is a fast-paced class that goes much further than "the dog ate my homework." Be prepared for note taking and rigorous studying.

Locker Renovation and Decoration

Course Description: Students in this course will learn the basics. Economizing space, shelving, color-coordinating, poster placement, and leaving enough room for a winter coat will all be covered.

Purdue Appreciation

Course Description: Seniors only. The main objective of this course involves learning the benefits of a quality Purdue education. The content is mainly lecture oriented. Emphasis will be placed on the accomplishments of former Purdue graduates as well as the study of life on campus.

Teacher: Mr. Mark Horvath

Notewriting and Passing

Course Description: Students will learn how to spark the usual "Hi, what's up? This class is sooooo boring." into a literary masterpiece. After fundamentals are mastered emphasis will be placed on techniques for safe and accurate note passing.

Doodle as an Art Form

Course Description: Prerequisite: Notewriting and Passing I. Emphasis is placed on advanced design form to occupy at least forty minutes of a boring lecture. Selected works may be entered into competition at the art fair.

If Mike Retseck had taken a course on bee/wasp awareness he might be alerting Kevin Rokosz and Ike Anigbo to danger.

If a Ping Pong Team ever did come into existence then Sr. Philothea would probably be the coach.

EXTRACURRICULAR ACTIVITIES

Young Romans of Andrean Club: This club was developed for those students who feel a special need to don early Roman attire and fight with swords and shields. Mock fights take place every Thursday from 3 to 4:30. The Annual Chariot race is held on the first Saturday in May.

Bungee over Merrillville Club: This club allows a safe and enjoyable escape for those students who are overwhelmed by schoolwork and just want to "hang-out" for a while. The group meets every other Wednesday.

Ping-Pong Team: Tryouts are in the spring. Practices are every day 3-4 in the main gym. A complete physical is necessary before try-outs. Regional competition begins in May.

The Twister Team: Tryouts for varsity are held in August. Twister, the ultimate team sport, creates many lasting friendships through the rigorous athletic activity. Regional competition begins in October. The end of the season pizza party is in December.

Diving and Swimming Team: Practices take place every Monday, Wednesday and Friday 3 to 6pm. Students must come prepared with swimsuit and towel to every practice. Tardiness will not be tolerated. Bring your own pool.

Fantasy Clubs and Classes

After a successful season on the Twister Team Bill Finn could indulge himself at the annual pizza party.

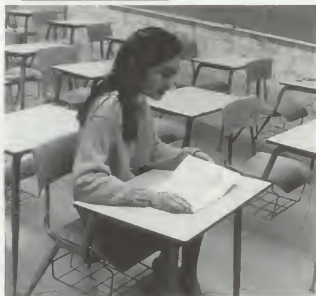

A Bungee Club would have Jeff Jacobs, Paul Muszik, Shane Schafer, Lewis Eldridge, Bill Finn, and Tim Gutowski jumping with excitement.

Matt Murawski and Jason Martin have already had the necessary experience for the Young Romans Club.

S P O R T S

Andrean has long been known as a school primarily dedicated to rigorous academics. With all the emphasis placed on studying, it just seems logical that the sports program would lack participation and support, right? Wrong. Nearly half of the students are involved in the sports program which includes a total of 26 different competing teams. Although Andrean may be lacking a swimming pool and a hockey team, there is certainly no lack of support among fans. Several times the 5,000 seat Father Vincent Eckert Football Stadium and the gym have been filled to capacity with screaming fans. Typical Andrean athletes devote an average 12 hours of hard work and practice a week during the sports season. But what do they do during the off season? Besides training to keep in shape, watching pro-sports on TV occupies a major part of time. The Chicago Bulls is nearly unanimously the favorite basketball team among students. As far as baseball is concerned, 53% of students like the White Sox, but only 37% are die-hard Cub fans; the other 10% support other teams. Athletes also spend their time shopping during the off-season for one of their 4.8 pairs of tennis shoes. What's the favorite breakfast of athletes? Wheaties, the breakfast of champions finished behind eggs and pancakes in this race. The favorite thirst quencher among athletes is water, but for that deep-down body thirst 36% of students like Gatorade. During the off-season many athletes can be found at the library hitting the books and putting in some extra study time. At Andrean, balancing sports and schoolwork is a sport in itself.

Frosh & JV Football

Success in a building season

It was a building season for Andrean's junior varsity and frosh football teams. The JV team closed the season with a 1-6 record with a victory over Bishop Noll.

The frosh team had a 4-4 record with wins over Bishop Noll, Lew Wallace, West Side and Wirt.

Four frosh players went with the varsity to sectionals. One of the four was Andy Harsha who reflects, "I will never forget playing time on varsity. That was cool!"

The team had memorable moments. "Our most memorable moment was our first win in the O-rama," reflects Matt Dorris. John Janik also reminisces, "My best moment was when I scored a touchdown."

Janik comments, "Coach Gerry Scheub and Assistant Coach Rob Holcomb were inspirational."

In outstanding seasons, both girls' and boys' cross country teams went to semi-state.

For the girls' team, the most memorable moment came at the Lafayette Jefferson meet when the runners competed against twenty other teams and came out on top, winning first place. Led by Coach Perrin, the girls practiced hard and strove for semi-state and state. "Mr. Perrin is a most dedicated coach," informed Michelle Rizzo.

Shelly Holzer led the team into semi-state where the girls ran their best, but did not qualify for state.

The boys' cross country team had dashing victories. Marshall Lowe, Most Valuable Player and in the top quarter in state, said, "The most valuable player varies from meet to meet. Sometimes our fifth or sixth man determines the win."

Coach Stanik ran with the team during practices and providing spirit.

At sectionals, the boys won first place, and at regionals they missed the top spot by one point. However, the team did compete at semi-state. Besides these wins, Marshall Lowe and Ryan Board went to Honolulu and Australia, where they ran against 40,000 people and placed 180 and 197. "It was a great experience!" exclaimed Lowe.

Volleyball

Meredith Keyak bumps the ball into play.

The freshman, junior, and varsity volleyball teams put their best effort into each game with help from Coach Adams, Coach Nizam, and Coach Malinich.

Freshmen and JV girls worked hard to develop their skills, aiming to win and play their best.

"I learned so much from Coach Ni-

The varsity team worked all season for their sectional victories against Horace Mann and West Side. After continuing play in regionals at Merrillville, the team finished with a 25-8 record losing to Crown Point. With team spirit, Sarah McGuire reflected, "We took each game at a time and looked towards sectionals."

At the end of the season awards were given to varsity players. Sarah McGuire received the Pride, Hustle, and Desire Award, Carolyn Kacocha and Lisa Kackos received the Most Valuable Player Award, and Jen Doffin was awarded Best Mental Attitude.

The Thrill of Victory

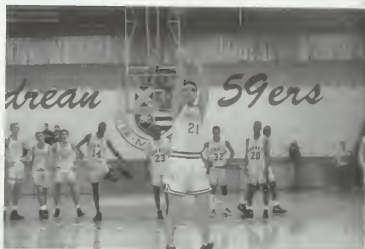

Boys' Basketball

In a season highlighted by a fourteen point win over arch-rival Merrillville, the Fifty-Niners gained fourteen victories. The Niners ran off eight straight mid-season victories, earning a ranked position among area teams.

Jeff Jacobs was named the MVP and earned the award for the highest free throw percentage. Scott Basista grabbed the most rebounds, and Mike Retseck won the Mental Attitude trophy. Junior Bill Finn was labeled the Most Improved Player and the Andrea Award went to Paul Muszik.

Armageddon

Armageddon was held on Wednesday, May 26. A variety of games and sports were played in which seniors competed against the sophomores, and juniors played against the freshmen. A few student organizations sold nachos, popcorn, candy, and ice cream. At lunch time, hungry Armageddon participants bought pizza and sandwiches.

The juniors eventually triumphed,

of the games were soccer, basketball, tennis, softball, dodgeball, water balloons, Twister, and Pictionary.

The morning started out with doughnuts and tennis and ended with a rough game of boys' dodgeball. Seniors won dodgeball with threatening throws which caught the attention of an excited audience.

During the bright sunny day, various winning the most points for the day. Sophomores got second place, with seniors and freshmen tied for third.

"The weather was perfect for Armageddon," agreed freshmen Emily Backe and Lena Vachirasomboon. Debbie Huff also exclaimed, "The dodgeball games were the high point of Armageddon, just as they are every year!"

“Pretty neat”

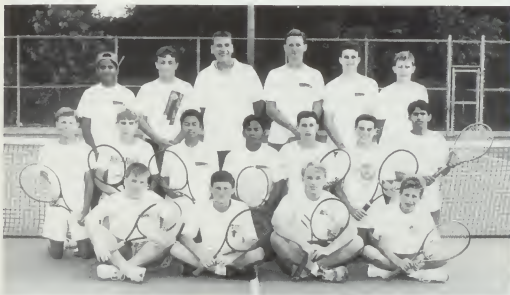

The boys' tennis team reached sectional finals through hard work and working together to improve throughout the season. They lost 2-3 to Merrillville during sectionals though, finishing the season with a 10-5 record.

For Ryan Carlos, the most memorable moment was the Merrillville Invitational. "Although we got second place, everyone of our divisions received a first place or second place medal. That was pretty neat for the whole team to receive medals," reflects Carlos, recipient of the Most Improved Player award.

Rodney Jao, MVP, playing singles won second place in the Merrillville tournament and first in the Highland doubles.

Junior Praveen Garlapati comments about Coach Klora, "I think we have a really good coach because he doesn't judge success as winning as do many other coaches."

The season started off slowly for the girls, who lost their early games despite serious efforts. However, with the leadership of new coach Robert Farag, the hard-working girls wrapped up the season with a 5-7 record. "The girls improved quite a bit," says Coach Farag. "We have some real serious golfers."

The season held many memories for the team. Jessica Farag, recipient of the MVP award, remembers, "I sank a long downhill putt on the 18th hole at Wick-er Golf Course for par."

"I will never forget playing Bishop Noll in the rain and winning! This season was lots of fun," says Sally Hernandez, Senior of the Year. Other team awards went to Annie Wisniewski for Rookie of the Year and Marcy Janjecic for Most Improved Player.

The boy's golf team had consistent players. At the Rensselaer Invitational, they placed third out of sixteen teams. Also Tom Superits, Most Valuable Player, placed fifth out of eighty players.

Superits comments, "Coach Grzych is a good coach because he's easy on us. He's one of the boys." The team with support from Coach Grzych finished the season with a record of 8-8.

At first glance it's obvious that every student at Andrean has at least one thing in common — uniforms. But don't be fooled by the similar clothing, because each student is anything but identical. As a matter of fact, the different traits that each person possesses are just too numerous to list. The big differences are made obvious every day — but how about the little quirks that distinguish each individual? For example 14% of students prefer clear pop to colas. Of the people who prefer colas, 60.5% drink Pepsi, 37.5% like Coke and the remaining 2% choose Dr. Pepper and other cola products. In answering the age old question: Which came first the chicken or the egg? 27.3% argued the egg came first while 63.6% sided with the chicken. The average amount of TV that each Niner watches varies from 1 to 7 hours each day. Favorite music is also a widely disputed topic among the students. 6.9% of students prefer the oldies songs, 7.3% opt for country tunes, 14.3% chose rap, 28.6% turn on classic rock, 21.6% listen to alternative music and 21.2% enjoy hard rock. Favorite musical performers ranged all the way from Barry Manilow and Garth Brooks to Eric Clapton and Metallica. As far as sleeping patterns were concerned, 44.4% of students classified themselves as morning people, while the remaining 65.6% considered themselves to be night-owls. When asked if they had ever liked their yearbook picture 57.2% replied "yes" and only 42.8% said "no." While Andrean students may be similar in their appearances, their personal tastes are anything but uniform.

Raising Steer Isn't All Fun and Games

Dan and Jeremy Cora are used to being kicked around. They have been raising beef cattle as a hobby since they were six years old and had to stand on milk crates to care for their steer. Their sister, Kim, an Andean grad, taught them how.

Along with the pleasure of raising steer, though, come sacrifice and responsibility. Tending animals often interferes with other activities. After school, homework, soccer and basketball practice, they have chores. Much of Dan and Jeremy's work is done on the weekend, which leaves them little free time.

Dan enjoys raising steer but thinks he will stop when he leaves home. Jeremy, on the other hand, plans to make raising steer a lifelong hobby. He hopes to teach his children how to care for cattle. Although this hobby seems strange to some, the Cora brothers wouldn't know what to do without their steer.

Fans are faithful

When Becky Elliott stood in line for two hours last October to see John Paxson, she wondered if it was really worth it. "After all," she reasoned, "is anybody worth waiting in line two hours to see?" That question was answered when she saw the guard from the Bulls, sitting at a table signing autographs. When it was finally her turn, he signed her Decussata and gave her several autographed pictures. Becky thought that her experience with John Paxson was "one of the best days of my life."

Sports figures are not the only ones to inspire such devotion. When the tickets for Lollapalooza 3 went on sale, fans started lining up early in the morning to buy them. Junior Barb Goss got to the TicketMaster outlet at 5 A.M. and already a long line had formed even though the tickets were not yet being sold. After waiting several hours for the outlet to open, she had to stand in line for another 2 hours before she finally got her hands on the tickets. Barb is going to the concert solely because "I heard last year's was good and I wanted to go this year."

Some movies can also compel people to stand in line for several hours. When "Dracula" premiered at the Southlake and Loew's theaters, lines formed that stretched to the parking lot. Junior Mike Pappas and his friends stood in line for 30 minutes. After they got their tickets, a few more people were allowed in before all the tickets were gone. Mike thought the movie was "good, really worth the wait." Obviously, waiting in line is half the fun.

S E N I O R S

Increasing inability to concentrate, lack of attendance at classes, loss of promptness, restlessness resulting in the inability to complete homework — these are just some of the symptoms of that dreaded disease, senioritis. By March, 86.67% of the senior class admitted to having senioritis. 13.3% said they had not yet contracted the illness, but it was suspected that these cases were just undiagnosed. In mid-year the countdown started and the restlessness began. As the year moved on, the symptoms increased. Toward the end of the year, seniors sat back, relaxed, and enjoyed some of the Andrean traditions for the very last time, such as Armageddon, Prom, dress-up day, dress-down day, and open lunch. Some seniors also indulged in the “unofficial” traditions. Parties, going out for breakfast, and suspicious all-day absences became more frequent towards the end of the year. As graduation day grew closer, seniors became more concerned with future plans. 46.15% planned to go away to college, while 53.85% planned to stay home and attend college, join the military, or enter the work force. When asked what they would most miss about Andrean, 57.14% said friends, 7% said open lunches, 7% said nothing, and 28.57% were undecided. As far as favorite subjects and teachers are concerned, the Social Studies department snagged the most votes while the English department finished second. As graduation came and senioritis was cured, the former seniors began to look back at the lasting memories made at Andrean High School.

Fun is Found "Somewhere in the Night"

The Junior-Senior Prom, Somewhere in the Night, was held on April 30 at the Munster Center for Performing Arts. Students, dressed in elegant attire, began to arrive at six o'clock. Dinner was served at seven, and dancing began at eight. Parents and grandparents arrived at nine-thirty to take pictures of the grand march procession. The highlight of the evening came at the crowning of royalty when Jack Lehner and Shelli Holzer were crowned the 1993 Prom King and Queen.

Paul Muszik and Jennifer Hicko enjoy their dinners as well as each other's company.

Mike Retseck and Sara Krantz talk about their post-prom plans.

After Prom, Paul Schumann, Brandy Redden, Stephanie Anderson, and Randy Renschen stop to call the restaurant to check their reservations.

Ready for an unforgettable evening Robbie Carpio escorts Michelle Kucan into the Munster Performing Arts Center.

Seniors Smash Stereotypes

We meet stereotyping every day, derived from years, sometimes generations, of prejudice. Most people would like to see stereotypes smashed. Several Andrean seniors take a stand against some of the stereotypes they're faced with.

Blonde-haired athlete and scholar Michelle Rizzo thinks that "stereotypes are unfair because they don't give people a chance."

"Many people have judged me either a dumb bimbo or an air-head because I have blonde hair. I wish people would get rid of their preconceptions about me until they get to know me," says Michelle Rizzo. "There are all kinds of stereotypes, but most aren't true," said red-haired, soft-spoken Tish Maris. "I hate the comment that all redheads have fiery tempers, because I'm different, and I don't have a fiery temper."

"When I hear someone stereotyping athletes, I am very offended," said National Honor Society member and football player J.P. Walker. "Athletes learn how to develop self-discipline and a good work ethic while participating in sports," according to J.P..

Therefore, they usually work harder in school or their jobs. Student athletes are often more successful than other students in school, because of their desire to compete and their ability to budget their time and deal with adversity.

Everyone is different, if not in one way, then another. Why are people always labeled because of their outer appearances rather than for character?

Asians also face especially unfair stereotypes.

"Stereotypes are unfair because they don't give people a chance."

otyping "because the majority of Asians are perceived as pretty intelligent," says Rodney Jao, an Asian with average grades.

"The reason is their strict upbringing by the parents and grandparents. Because of the close relationship with their parents, Asian children don't want to fail."

He continued, "I don't feel good or bad about it.

I personally don't feel that it's racial prejudice or discrimination, but it can turn into it. The one thing that I don't like is that teachers or superiors assume that you are intelligent and expect high standards of you."

Styles of music have also caused some stereotyping. African-American Michelle McGill said, "Although rap is a dominant form of music in the Black community, it doesn't mean that all Black people listen to it. It's just an art form that other ethnic groups also enjoy." She insisted, "I listen to a variety of music, everything from rap to R & B to classical.

Andrean teaches us to "judge people not by what you see, but by the content of their character." And yet we sometimes label people by their appearance. Perhaps it's time to apply the lesson we have been taught.

Michelle Rizzo, J.P. Walker, Rodney Jao and Tish Maris agree that Andrean is no place for stereotypes.

As the class of 1993, we have made a significant impact on Andean. We are a unique class. Many changes have been made since we arrived here as scared freshmen. We were the first class to be allowed to attend the Homecoming dance as freshmen. We were the last class that was not required to take geography and typing. We were also the last class allowed to take a study hall as underclassmen.

So as we leave Andean and go our separate ways, we will never forget all the memories and changes that we as a class have made.

Outstanding in His Field

While many Andean students spend their summer vacations relaxing, going to the beach, and tanning in the sun, senior Mike Kornafel focuses his time on growing pumpkins. This may sound a little strange, but recipients of these pumpkins are very happy. Mike spends the summer developing a patch of pumpkins, some weighing up to 150 pounds. He then donates these pumpkins to the Christian Assembly Church in Hobart, hoping that the children will get excited and come to church. The children put their names in a raffle, and the children whose names are picked receive the pumpkins. This year the largest pumpkin won weighed 165 pounds! Mike helps in many different programs for the children sponsored by the Christian Assembly Church. As stated by Michael Macchia Jr., children's director, "Michael has directly had a hand in the growth of our children's program. He helps with the kids in many different programs." "When I see the happiness in the faces of the children it makes me feel good. It lets me know the kids are feeling good and that their happy. It also makes me feel great when I know their learning the teachings of the Lord," according to Mike.

Appearances can be deceiving. Our daily routine — the way we dress, the way we talk, and the way we act often cause others to categorize us. Granted, we all are similar in some ways. We all have a few things in common, but people are like snowflakes — no two are exactly alike. It is the fine and minute differences in our personalities which distinguish us as individuals, and it is each individual that makes Andrean whole and special.

It's not the years of tradition or the marble walls that make Andrean different — it's you. Every student that enters Andrean leaves a lasting mark. Andrean is unique because each one of us is unique — Out of the Ordinary.
